

CV Manfred Milinski

Born in Oldenburg (Niedersachsen), Germany studied biology and mathematics at Bielefeld University and at the Ruhr-University, Bochum Diploma (Diplom-Biologe) 1975, Dr. rer. nat. 1978 from the Ruhr-University, Habilitation 1985

Employment

Visiting professor at the ecology department of Bergen University, Norway, Heisenberg-Stipendiat (German Science Foundation) at the Zoology Department of Oxford University,

Full Professor and Director of Department of Behavioural Ecology at the Institute of Zoology, Bern University, Switzerland from 1987 to 1999.

Since 1999 Scientific Member of the Max Planck Society and Founding Director of the Max Planck Institute for Evolutionary Biology, Plön, since 2000 Honorar-Professor at the Christian-Albrechts-Universität Kiel.

Fellow of the German Academy of Sciences. Leopoldina; guest fellow of the Institute of Advanced Study at the Toulouse School of Economics and of the Hanse Institute of Advanced Study